The programme focused about various aspects of Python concepts along with Django.

Mr. V. Rakesh from TASK, a subject matter expert, imparted the event. This Python software is frequently used for data analysis, data visualization, task automation, and website and software development. A high-level Python web framework called Django is used to create safe websites. Around 99 enthusiasts from II B.Sc, and III B.Sc (MPCs, MECs, MSCs) TASK registered students have took part in this programme. During lab sessions students received hands on training from experts in their respective fields.

The programme was co-ordinated by Mrs. Ch. Usha Rani, Department of Computer Science.
